To Nina,
It's been 3 tries at the guys, scoring once (I think - you don't tell me what goes on in your room at night) It's been a terrific year with you and next year should be just the same - or even better. I hope you have fun in Switzerland with some gorgeous guy in a ski lodge on a couch next to a fire with some hot chocolate - you take it from here. Your Gym show routine is good, even if you are klutzy enough to break your own finger by sitting on top of it. Keep getting High Honors though 12th - I'll be there egging you on.

Dedication

Thesis: Master Gene Kerrick is worthy of receiving the Record dedication of the Class of 1976.

I. Unusual but magnetic characteristics
   A. Unusual
      1. Japanese
      2. Awful jokes and riddles: pun-ishment
         a. "What do you get when you put a baby goat in a cement mixer? Why, a crazy, mixed-up kid." (No kidding)
         b. "What should you do if your toes fall off while crossing the street? Why, you call a tow truck."
   B. Magnetic
      1. Great concern for the senior class
         a. Annual invitation to Poconos home
         b. Infamous chaperone
      2. Great concern for the senior as individual
         a. Always listens to individual problems
         b. Always tries to help

II. Miscellaneous Lovable Characteristics
   A. Constantly scurries
   B. Most unique "Hi" (unavoidable)
   C. Lovable illegible penmanship
   D. Varied teaching methods
      1. Games. . .
      2. 100 question multiple choice tests
      3. Assorted inquirical (inquirical?) textbooks
         a. The Shaping of Western Society: An Inquiry Approach
         b. Inquiries in Sociology
   E. Original key phrases
      1. "Sit down s'il vous plait and, if you don't play do it anyway."
      2 ". . . when I went to Berkeley. . ."

Conclusion: The key to Master Gene's charm is his magnetism, his originality, his dedication to his field, and his concern for other individuals. We, the Class of 1976, fondly dedicate the Record to Master Gene Kerrick.

Dear Nina;

Although the only time you were in my class was 6th grade. (for only ½ a year) We always had fun outside of class in the hall, lunchroom, etc. Maybe if I stayed I'd be in your class but since I'm leaving, I can't. It was really fun the things we did together. I can't say them all 'cause it would take up too much room. You'll always be in my mind, I'll never forget you. Have a good summer, as well as ninth grade, and I'll see you when I visit from Central High.

Love always

The secret of success is constancy to purpose.

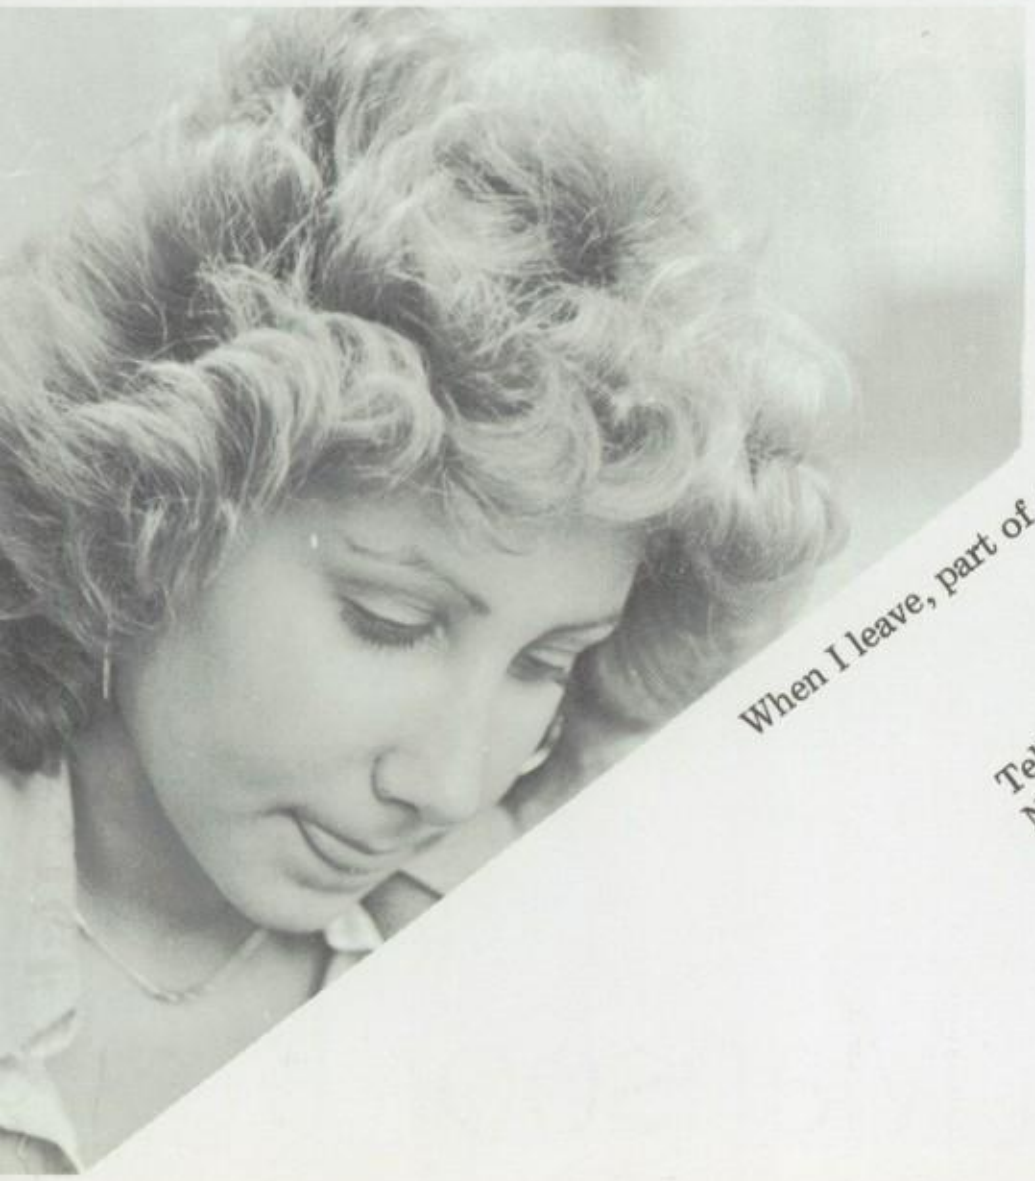
Steven L. Abrams



When I leave, part of me will remain behind with those I love.

Tell me where, where do I go
Now that they're giving me chance to show Dreams are dreamed to be chased.

Tell me how, how I can find Reality from fantasies inside my mind.
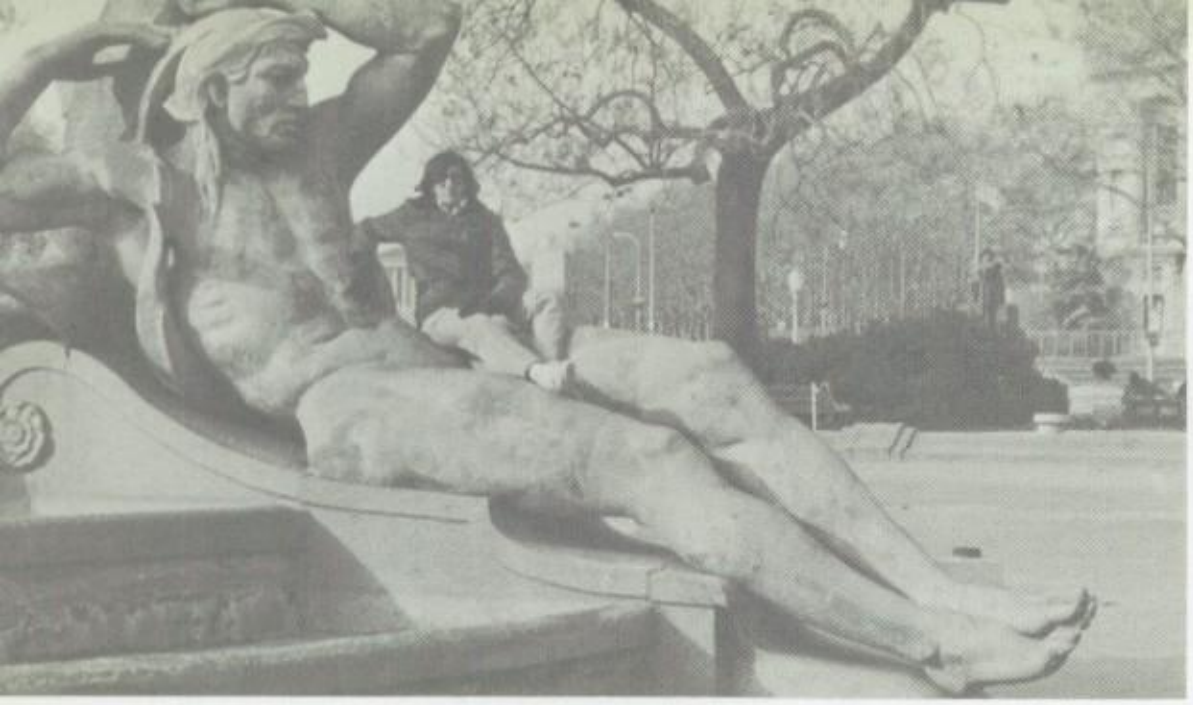
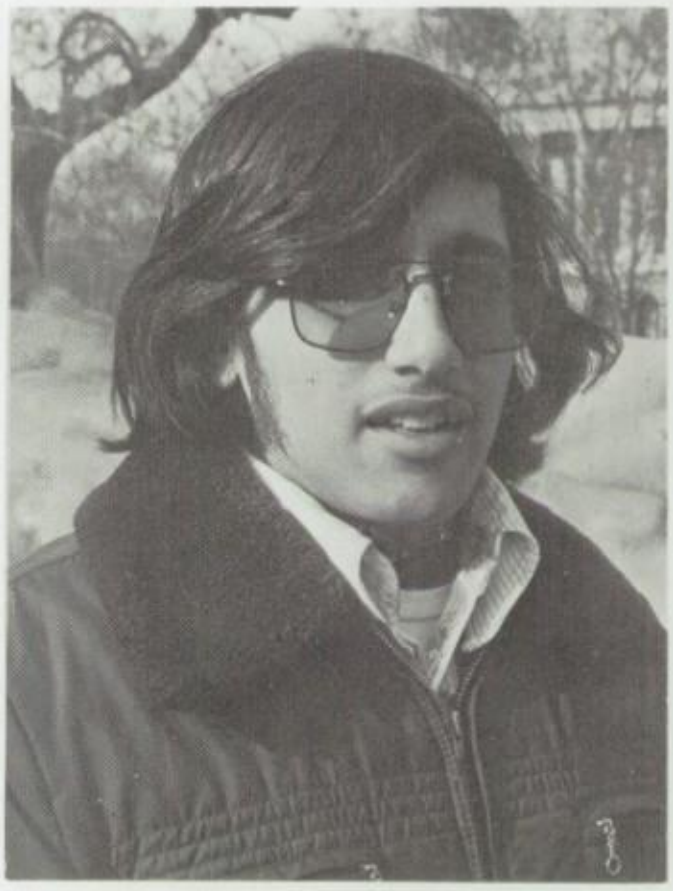
When I've been dreaming only of a dream.

Elisa Barry



I do profess to be no less than I seem, to serve him truly that will put me in trust, to love him that is honest, to converse with him that is wise and says little, to fear judgment, to fight when I cannot choose, and to eat no fish.

William Shakespeare



I do my thing
and you do your thing.
I am not in this world to live up to your expectations, and you are not in this world to live up to mine.
You are you and I am I and if by chance we find each other
it is beautiful.

Fredrick S. Perls

I have neither the scholar's melancholy, which is emulation; nor the musician's, which is fantastical; nor the courtier's, which is proud; nor the soldier's, which is ambitious; nor the lawyer's, which is politic; nor the lady's, which is nice; nor the lover's, which is all these: but it is a melancholy of mine own, compounded of many simples, extracted from many objects, and indeed the sundry contemplation of my travels, in which my often rumination wraps me in a most humorous sadness.

'Reality is a complex of related hypotheses,' he said pulling up the horses. 'Take they hypotheses yonder.' He pointed to a flock of sheep with the wet end of his sucking straw. 'Now theyse all related in a complex sort of way so theyse got ter be real ain't they.'
Ned looked at him very hard. 'Ev you been drinkin' with parson again?'

Can this world be a masquerade? Are you really what we see on the outside and hidin' what you really are on the inside.
Pretendin' that you're something you're really not.
Whole world is a masquerade
Everybody, everybody wears another face
Can't you see, what you really are? Pretendin' that you want the world to be a better place, fightin' makin' war on your fellow man.
So why wear this face, that makes it seem everything's so great.

How do I say, goodbye to what we've had,
The goodtimes that made us glad, outweigh the bad.
I thought we get to see forever, but forever had blown away,
It's so hard to say goodbye, to yesterday. . .
I don't know, where this road is going to lead to,
All I know is where we've been, and what we've been through.
If it gets me tomorrow, I hope it's with all the pain,
It's so hard to say goodbye to yesterday. . .
And I'll take with me the memories, to be my sunshine after the rain.
It's so hard to say goodbye to yesterday

One of the jurors had a pencil that squeaked. This, of course, Alice could not stand, and she went around the court behind him and very soon found an opportunity of taking it away. She did it so quickly that the poor little juror (it was Bill, the Lizard) could not make out at all what had become of it; so, after hunting all about for it, he was obliged to write with one finger for the rest of the day; and this was of very little use, as it left no mark on the slate.

"Jean: You're very strange, you know!

Julie: Perhaps, but so are you! Besides, everything is strange! Life, humanity, everything—slush that is whirled, whirled along the water, till it sinks, sinks! There's a dream of mine which comes back to me now and then; I remember it now. I have to climb the top of a pillar, and am sitting there without seeing any possibility of getting down. When I must look down I get dizzy, and yet get down I must, though I haven't the courage to throw myself down. I can't hold on, and I long to be able to fall; but I don't fall. And yet I have no peace till I am down, no rest till I am down, down, on the ground! And if I did reach the ground I should want to be down in the earth. . . Have you ever felt like that?

BETH GAGNE

Jean: No. I usually dream that I'm lying under a tall tree in a dark wood. I want to be up, up at the top, to look out over the bright landscape where the sun is shining, and plunder the bird's nest where the golden eggs lie. So I climb and climb, but the stem of the tree is so thick and so smooth, and it's such a long way to the first branch. But I know that if I could only reach the first branch. I should get to the top as easily as if I were on a ladder. I have never reached it yet; but reach it I shall, if only in my dreams!"

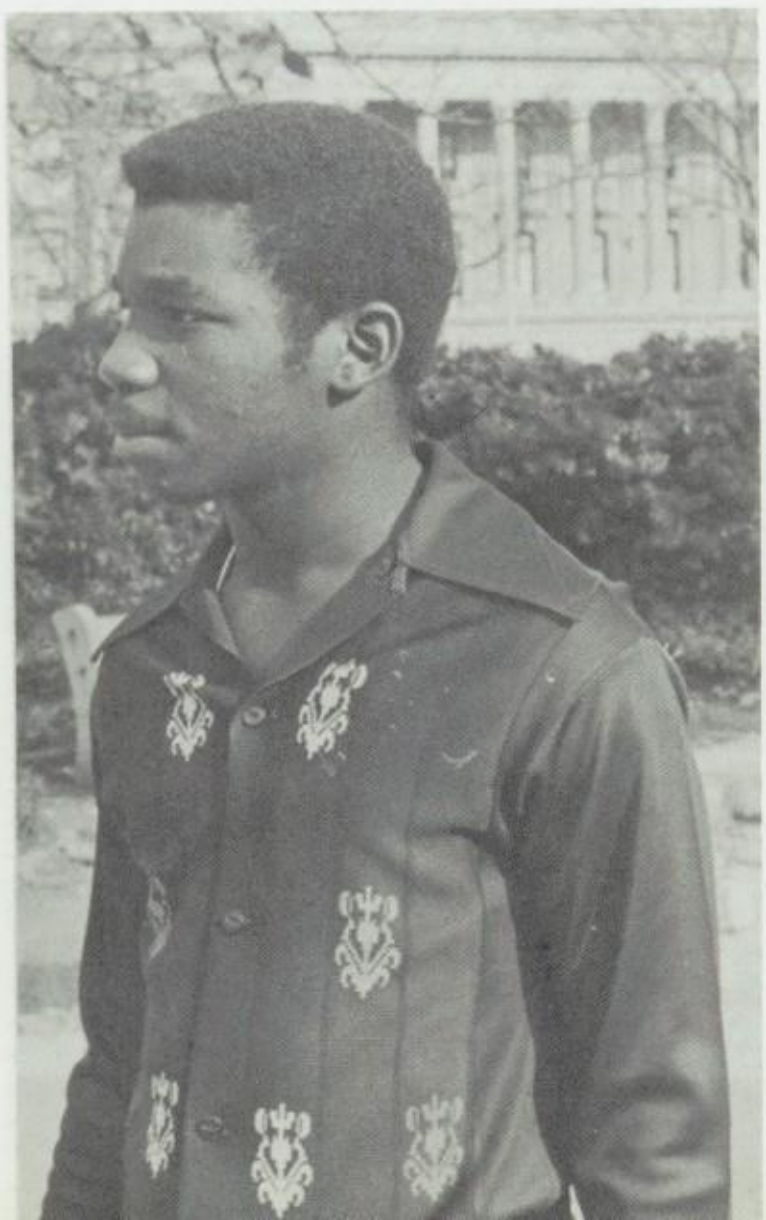
Conscious of the reality of evil and the tragedy of the individual life, and conscious, too, of the demand that life be conducted with decency.



You cannot play with the animal in you without becoming wholly animal, play with falsehood without forfeiting your right to truth, play with cruelty without losing your sensitivity of mind. He who wants to keep his garden tidy doesn't reserve a plot for weeds.

There was once a time
When I couldn't open doors Try as I might straining, stretching, reaching
I was too short to reach the knob
But I'm taller now
perhaps full grown
And the knobs
no longer bar my entry And yet the doors still don't open
The locks and chains
have been installed
And I without a key am trapped again.

The beauty of friendship is to understand and to

You shall indeed hear but never understand,

For this people's heart has grown hearing, and their eyes they have closed, lest they should perceive with their

and hear with their ears, and understand with their heart and turn for me to heal them.

You are a child of the universe

Go placidly amid the noise and haste, and remember what peace there may be in silence. As far as possible without surrender be on good terms with all persons. Speak your truth quietly and clearly; and listen to others, even the dull and ignorant; they too have their story. ❧ Avoid loud and aggressive persons, they are vexations of the spirit. If you compare yourself with others, you may become vain and bitter; for always there will be greater and lesser persons than yourself. Enjoy your achievements as well as your plans. ❧ Keep interested in your own career, however humble; it is a real possession in the changing fortunes of time. Exercise caution in your business affairs; for the world is full of trickery. But let this not blind you to what virtue there is; many persons strive for high ideals; and everywhere life is full of heroism. ❧ Be yourself. Especially, do not feign affection.
Neither be cynical about love; for in the face of aridity and disenchantment it is perennial as the grass. ❧ Take kindly the counsel of the years, gracefully surrendering the things of youth. Nurture strength of spirit to shield you in sudden misfortune. But do not distress yourself with imaginings. many fears are born of fatigue and loneliness. Beyond a wholesome discipline, be gentle with yourself. ❧ You are a child of the universe, no less than the trees and the stars; you have a right to be here. And whether or not it is clear to you, no doubt the universe is unfolding as it should. ❧ Therefore be at peace with God, whatever you conceive him to be, and whatever your labours and aspirations, in the noisy confusion of life keep peace with your soul. ❧ With all its sham, drudgery and broken dreams, it is still a beautiful world.
Be careful. Strive to be happy. ❧ ❦

Where do I go?
Follow the river
Where do I go?
Follow the gulls
Where is the something Where is the someone
That tells me why I live and die?
Where do I go?
Follow the children
Where do I go?
Follow their smiles
Is there an answer
In their sweet faces
That tells me why I live and die?
Follow the windsong
Follow the thunder
Follow the neon in your lover's eyes
Down to the gutter
Up to the glitter
Into the city where the truth lies
Where do I go?
Follow my heartbeat
Where do I go?
Follow my hand
Where will they lead me?
And will I ever
Discover why I live and die?

Boy you can't make it cause a feeble mind is in your way
No more tears do we cry and we have finally dried our eyes

And we're a winner and everybody knows its you We'll just keep on pushin' like your leaders tell you to Happiness is the greatest paradox in nature.

It can grow in any soil, live under any conditions.
It defies environment.
It comes from within; it is the revelation of the depths of the inner life as light and heat proclaim the sun from which they radiate. Happiness consists not of having, but of being; not of possessing, but of enjoying. A martyr at the stake may have happiness that a king on his throne might envy.
Man is the creator of his own happiness: it is the aroma of a life lived in harmony with high ideals.
For what a man has, he may be dependent on others;
what he is, rests with him alone.
Happiness is the soul's joy in the possession of the intangible.
It is the warm glow of a heart at peace with itself.

A happy life consists in tranquility of the mind.

Pier De Vida Ward

Dearest Pier,

All that I can give you is time to grow, to share, to love—as only you can do. My demands of you are simple. Blossom, my friendship into the beautiful flower that I see inside. Remember that I am behind you whenever, wherever and in whatever you do—simply because I love you.

Tests, report cards, grades . . .
How can a letter depict our achievement?
High school, college — study, study
Fake it, cheat, cram Short rest and back to work —
The maze never seems to end
Then suddenly
One day
Without warning —
You're on the road with the sun in your face
You're free and alone, without direction . . .
And you don't know where you're going.

What do you believe in
my friend?
It can't be your religion.
For it is of love and peace.
But you are of hate and war.
What do you believe in
my friend?

Shattered Dreams

I reach down and touch a dried crackly leaf. It falls apart in my hand.
Like a dream being shattered by just one touch of the hand. . .

But years go by and shattered hopes and dreams become nothing but memories.
The dried leaves live through another winter and turn into soil — Foundations for new trees with new dreams for tomorrow.

There's always something about the changing of the seasons that gets next to me. The moon looks closer, the sun feels warmer, the trees smell greener, the pavement seems blacker—and we, a little older, a little wiser, with a little more love and a bit more patience, are in a change also. Whether we go from summer to winter, spring to fall, a certain newness, a special freshness comes into play.

Dear Nina,

I'm never going to forget this year, we had a great relationship. One problem was - remember when you + Pete broke up and I said, "oh he's not going to ask you," Well I guess I was kind of wrong, wouldn't you say? There were a few other times, weren't there? Yes! And also remember when you liked Joey and then you decided he was a clutz, well you were DEFINATLY right. (I wrote this right after he dropped my yearbook.) I bet when you tell your mom + dad about the strobe light they aren't going to let you use the Bankamericard anymore. We're going to see each other at the swim club so it's not like we're saying good-bye forever. I hope our trip to New York and to the beach work out. Know what? Your dad told mom that they don't trust us to go to New York by ourselves because your dad thinks you will get lost. Mom told him we wouldn't. We could also go to the beach (Rhode Island) If you want to, and a shark might eat us. Last year after I saw JAWS I was afraid to go swimming. Anyway, back to the subject there is one way to tell how close we were this year - that social studies test - we got the EXACT same things right + wrong. We also helped each other in a lot of other subjects - let's not call it cheating, let's just say it was teamwork. [We] had teamwork in many ways in school and wasn't cheating as Bryan thinks it is. I don't know - but do you think [you] don't like your pussy cat? I probably made you feel that way by what I said about how Sammy was better [bu]t I really like "it" a lot its going to be a really nice cat. (In social studies) Mr. Rick is giving us his hardluck story [gi]ving how hard he works making up his course plans. You know when he said how he'd miss all of us [an]d how he learned from us. He was excluding some people (namely me). It seems that at the end [of] the year people are always closer because they forget all the bad things that happened [a]nd become friends. It's funny - at the beginning of the year you and Mary-Anne were [...] year? Beth is really lucky because she can make friends with everyone. [...] (with a letter) If you don't want it you can tear it out or something. I know this is Really stupid and it isn't [...] really the way to sign a yearbook [...] I will always remember you.

Love Erica

P.S. Over the summer learn how to spell! 'cause next year your mom isn't going to proofread

I leave you my pet giraffe a baby.

Tomorrow, and tomorrow, and tomorrow
Creeps in this petty pace from day to day
To the last syllable of recorded time;
And all our yesterdays have lighted fools
The way to dusty death. Out, out brief candle;
Life's but a walking shadow, a poor player
That struts and frets his hour upon the stage
And then is heard no more: it is a tale
Told by an idiot, full of sound and fury Signifying nothing.

Dear Nina,
This year has been really weird. It has gone from screaming beasts to good friends. That's the way it should be next year. (really good friends) One really benifits from having a friend like you. Though you may not know, I really like being friends with you. Next year, we should get together and show the school who's king by playing a duet!!!

Have A Great Summer!
